We are sinners in a broken world who need mercy and grace. We welcome doubters and believers, seekers and members, spiritual-but-not-religious and religious-but-not-spiritual. We believe God has boundless, unconditional love for everyone, no exceptions. We understand our world is changing and the need to adapt faithfully. We revere the traditions of our faith and strive to be flexible in our practices. In the midst of perpetually changing times, we look for new opportunities to share God’s love.

Emboldens all to serve because all are called to service

We put our faith into action by serving our neighbors, both locally and globally. When God calls, we respond “Here I am Lord; send me.” We strive to be a community resource for service opportunities. We seek to be a part of the solution to our world’s needs.

Provides a model of life-long Christian learning

We embrace big questions and deep doubts so that we all might grow in our faith and come to understand God’s Holy Word. Life-long learning is essential to our spiritual growth.

Celebrates diverse worship styles and experiences

We know that the Holy Spirit comes to each of us in many different ways. We gather as a faith community with rich traditions, but we are also energized by fresh, new ways to worship. Our experiences are intentional, energizing, relevant and personal.
